

Tweakers' Asylum

I've used the V-cap TFTFs as coupling caps in my tubed linestage and REALLY like them (I'm using the 0.68 μ F ones). They've been in the linestage for several months now and have probably about 1000 hours on them. I've used MultiCap PPMFX, PPFX-S and RTX as well as some Sprague 'orange drops' in this position and the V-Cap TFTF caps are superior to all of these. Very good bass response, and very clean and detailed sound that is not at all what I'd call sterile or bland. I'm gonna try to post a review of these (and the newer OIMP V-caps as well, which are also VERY good (trounced some Auricaps and various MultiCaps)) sometime soon.

The V-caps aren't inexpensive, but at least for my application they were well worth the cash. A no brainer AFAIC.
