Regarding the coincidental posts; I was just about to publish my own review but I am waiting until I have 500 hours on them. If one wants or needs to be sceptical, OK, but the change is real. I replaced AN Copper caps and believe me, the changes are not subtle. I will post my review later. One can go to the V-Cap website and there are links to plenty of other posts regarding the caps. All positive by the way. I do not think Chris wants or needs schills to promote his products. To make that implication is to denigrate a persons character. Not appropriate if you do not know the person. You can call Chris and talk to him to judge his character. Till then..... Scepticism is healthy, especially around audio, but questioning a persons character, especially one with a rep for providing modestly priced DIY stuff is kind of, unkind. www.audiospecialtiesofnm.com
